Anti-Oppression Framework

Position Statement

WCASA believes that to achieve our mission of ending sexual violence, we must also end all forms of oppression. Anti-oppression work is, in fact, also sexual violence prevention work. We stand in solidarity with our allies working on issues of racial justice and other oppressions. Recognizing that women of color* face multiple layers of marginalization with race/ethnicity and gender, WCASA commits to focusing on all forms of oppression while keeping women of color at the center.

*WCASA uses the Women of Color Network definition of 'women of color'

Strategies

- Devote full attention and investment to communities of color
- Recognize and value culturally-specific organizations and their work
- Listen to and honor the voices of women of color and then act, based on guidance
- Grow support for women of color in the movement
- Understand historical trauma and its ongoing impact today
- Educate ourselves about anti-oppression
- Aspire to be an ally
- Acknowledge your white privilege and use it to challenge systems of oppression

Prevention

Communications: Building awareness & challenging social norms that contribute to sexual violence

Community and Offender Accountability: Addressing sexual violence as a community and public health issue

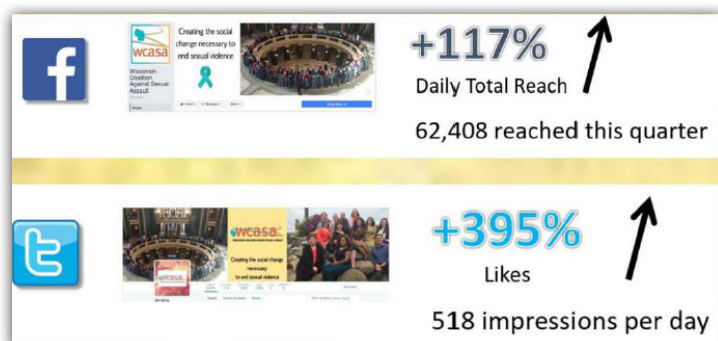

Prevention Infrastructure: Developing strategic partnerships to advance sexual violence prevention

Public Policy: Promoting policy initiatives to prevent sexual violence

Design, Implement and Evaluate Prevention Strategies: Funding local program
